«We have lost a friend, a colleague, a mentor, a man of great soul and a wise, intelligent and strong leader.

The death of Andrey Varichev is a personal tragedy for each employee of the team of many thousands of people.

He was a true leader who led by example giving us sustained energy. He was always able to find the right solution to any problem, inspire and unite people.

Andrey was a bright and competent leader, his opinion was respected and appreciated by the country's leaders, business partners and representatives of the global business community. Andrey Varichev always remained true to himself being a sincere and real person at all official events and informal meetings. He behaved the same way with us — employees of Metalloinvest.

He left us too soon, in the prime of his career and full of energy. His good deeds will live on and will serve people for a long time.

Andrey Varichev will always live in our hearts.»
